New generation of Passive Builders ready to push the Rockies forward

They know their stuff and are ready to strut.

This past May, the following companies and individuals spent a week studying how to apply Passive principles to the construction site and accrediting themselves with PHI's Certified Passive House Tradesperson program: Big C Builders (Gunnison, CO); Revolve Construction, Inc. (Wheat Ridge, CO); Living Craft Design Build (Denver, CO); Craig Teasley (Arvada, CO); B-Line Construction Services, Inc (Denver, CO); Beartooth Passive House LLC (Red Lodge, MT). Emu will offer this program again in February 2018 (see below).

Emu launches new program and pilot group of Manufacturer Partners

Collaborating toward a common goal.

As Emu moves forward with plans to make advanced building science more widely accessible to project teams, the following manufacturers have pledged to engage in the process:

Development: CPHT curriculum to get format overhaul for American builders

In response to the needs of busy builders, Emu has developed a new modular course structure.

Busy builders have to balance active job sites with the learning all the latest building science. The interdependency of products and materials has left many construction professionals exposed to risk and liability associated with heat and moisture flow dynamics. Emu's new CPHT format offers weekend learning opportunities.

Congratulations

to local companies pursuing
PHI Component Certification

Two Colorado based companies have embarked upon the rigorous journey of certifying their components with the international Passive House Institute, marking not only dedication in their mission towards Passive building, but also speaking very highly of the quality of their products: Alpen High Performance Products for their Tyrol window, and Phoenix Haus for their pre-fab construction system.

Professional networking

In the past year, several opportunities for Passive building networking have popped up in the Denver area. Passive House Rocky Mountains (PHRM), affiliated with NAPHN and led by Andrew Michler (phrockymountains.com); and Passive House SW Region Meetup Group, affiliated with PHIUS and led by John Avenson. In addition, Emu will continue to publicize our passive house and green building events on Meetup.com/DenverGreenBuilding.
